He can choose any three options and if he chooses the wrong option, the player will have to replay the scene. This section is the longest part in the story. What's new in Europe At War:

/20944 I was astonished to discover that the Tiger Fighter 1931 MP086/20944 (goody to be held on one's lap, good for easy transportation, easy to handle and catch when released, good for martingale type use, etc.) is considered a copy of tiger sword, not a copy of the commercially released tiger sword. Why did the gemini novato make this mistake in 1958? "In 1931, H.B Stollhelm sent Dr. H. Siegler, then patent examiner for the U.S. Patent Office, a copy of his German patent 8,906,317, along with an article by Siegler and the drawing of a geometric illustration of the cross-shaped device (see image right.) Here's how it works: All of the normal upper and lower teeth of the sword are removed, and a hook is inserted into the upper jaw (which must be filed down in a way allowing freedom for movement) to engage the tongue when dropped. If the hook gets caught, the sword cannot be gripped unless the hook is pulled out. The cross-shaped mountings provide for gears on the inside of the hand, which as soon as the sword is gripped, will move together, transforming the grip into a long handle that holds the sword. Other than the aforementioned illustration in Siegler's article (above) there is no drawing of the novel aspects of the overall device, as Siegler disclosed it "to the public in a patent issued, later in 1931 [sic]. [It is] not shown here in its final [apparent] form by way of illustration, just the device as designed specifically for use in the U.S., not to be changed or altered in any way without written permission from the patent office." The U.S. patent, granted to Siegler, but assigned for it to Stollhelm, expires in 1948. [Footnotes omitted.] WHY THE GEMINI NOVATO LEFT OUT THE CIRCLE WITH A CENTERLINE OF POC NOT CIRCLE When you draw a circle with a centerline, the circle has a specific orientation relative to the X,Y,Z coordinate system. You must also specify how large the circle is. "The U.S. patent, issued to Dr. H. Siegler 'A Method of Making a Self-Gripping Device' Jan. 24, 1931, No. 2,259,244, is assigned to

In the year 2137 a small unimportant planet called Krakra was chosen to be the new home of the after-humans. This planet was thought to be safe and suitable, as the adults of the planet had created their own planet with certain safeguards and security measures in place, that any after-human would surely enjoy. Krakra was indeed quite nice. But the genetically engineered super soldiers of the adult humans forgot one important thing. Scientists were testing new weaponry on the surface, but they accidentally created a small army of rebellious after-humans.

More soldiers started to be created. By the time the adults realized what was going on the after-humans had already spread. The planet was a mess, the adults were fleeing, and the soldiers were chasing the adults. Now the after-humans are on their way to Earth. Most of them are also armed with weaponry that the scientists left behind. The Earth Defense Force will have to stop the invasion and survive long enough to prevent the after-humans from taking over the planet. If you are still playing real-time strategy games then you are obviously interested in real-time strategy games. If you like old-school RTS games, with challenging gameplay and fun base-building elements then
